

C O P Y

December 15, 1958

PERSONAL

Mr. Allen W. Dulles
2430 E Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Allen:

This is the letter I spoke to you about on Saturday. The writer of the letter, [REDACTED]

It does seem to me that if Feltrinelli has indeed broken away from his Communist associations, a useful service might be performed in bringing him to this country.

Certainly no development in Russia in recent months has been half so damaging to the Soviet position in world opinion as was Feltrinelli's action in publishing the Pasternak Book. It was good to talk to you.

With warm regards,

Encl:

22 December 1958

Dear [redacted]

I appreciate your recent telephone call and your letter of 15 December with its enclosure, of which I have taken a copy. We know a great deal about the subject matter of this letter and I will see whether anything further can be done.

Sincerely,

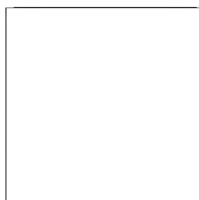

Encl.

[redacted]
1 - DCI

1 - [redacted]

1 - DDP

EXECUTIVE

Personal

Allen, I'm not sure that I grasp
this particular point -

Dear [redacted]

I wonder where this will reach you - [redacted]

I have a rather urgent and very important question to put up to you: a good friend of mine, the publisher of Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago, Giangiorgio Feltrinelli whose name you have seen in the papers on account of all the publicity given to Pasternak when he got the Nobel prize, has rather weighty affairs to see to in the US. Unfortunately, on account of his former communist affiliations, he finds it impossible to obtain a visa through the ordinary channels. Now, Feltrinelli broke off his ties after the Hungarian revolution, and, as you know, it has been tried to make him a tool of certain cold war activities, using Pasternak's book, which, again, has been against his will and intention.

You could ask [redacted] about the family (a great name in Italian industry).

Do you see any ways and means now Feltrinelli could be assisted - via [redacted] or any other of your official connections? [redacted]

I wish to add, unnecessarily I am sure, to keep this matter as confidential as possible.

Ginzburg

3. The bona fides of Mr. Feltrinelli's departure from the Italian CP is subject to doubt: even if he left the party in good faith, it is conceivable that he may have been brought under the control of either the Italian CP or the Soviet IS at some later date, especially after the publication of Dr. Zhivago and the award of the Nobel prize to Boris Pasternak made Mr. Feltrinelli such a tempting target. Even if this were not the case, it would seem rather likely that there is some Communist informant, if not a controlled agent, among his office staff or among his close friends.

[Redacted]
Chief

[Redacted] Staff

Attachments:

1. Ltr to [Redacted] 22 Dec.
2. Ltr to Mr. Dulles, 15 Dec.
3. Ltr to [Redacted] from
[Redacted] about 8 Dec.

Personal

Dear [redacted]

I wonder where this will reach you - [redacted]

I have a rather urgent and very important question to put up to you: a good friend of mine, the publisher of Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago, Giangiacomo Feltrinelli whose name you have seen in the papers on account of all the publicity given to Pasternak when he got the Nobel prize, has rather weighty affairs to see to in the US. Unfortunately, on account of his former communist affiliations, he finds it impossible to obtain a visa through the ordinary channels. Now, Feltrinelli broke off his ties after the Hungarian revolution, and, as you know, it has been tried to make him a tool of certain cold war activities, using Pasternak's book, which, again, has been against his will and intention.

You could ask [redacted] about the family (a great name in Italian industry).

Do you see any ways and means how Feltrinelli could be assisted - via [redacted] or any other of your official connections?

I wish to add, unnecessarily I am sure, to keep this matter as confidential as possible.

3. The bona fides of Mr. Feltrinelli's departure from the Italian CP is subject to doubt: even if he left the party in good faith, it is conceivable that he may have been brought under the control of either the Italian CP or the Soviet IS at some later date, especially after the publication of Dr. Zhivago and the award of the Nobel prize to Boris Pasternak made Mr. Feltrinelli such a tempting target. Even if this were not the case, it would seem rather likely that there is some Communist informant, if not a controlled agent, among his office staff or among his close friends.

Chief

Staff

Attachments:

1. Ltr to [redacted] 22 Dec.
2. Ltr to Mr. Dulles, 15 Dec.
3. Ltr to [redacted] from
[redacted] about 8 Dec.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE
HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS
AR 70-14

2 January 1959

MEMORANDUM FOR:

Assistant to the Director

SUBJECT:

Giangiaco Feltrinelli;
Application for Visa to the U. S.

REFERENCE:

Personal letter from
, dated 15 December 1958 (enclosure: letter from dated 8 December 1958).

2. Mr. Feltrinelli wants to visit the U.S. ostensibly in connection with the plans of the University of Michigan Press to publish a Russian-language edition of Dr. Zhivago, possibly also for talks with Pantheon Books, publishers of the American edition -- though the latter would seem less important, since Pantheon, to the best of our knowledge, has properly contracted with Mr. Feltrinelli about copyright.

22 December 1958

Dear [redacted]

I appreciate your recent telephone call and your letter of 15 December with its enclosure, of which I have taken a copy. We know a great deal about the subject matter of this letter and I will see whether anything further can be done.

Sincerely,

Encl.

[redacted]
1 - DCI w/ basic & copy of encl.
1 - [redacted] w/ basic
1 - DDP

(EXECUTIVE

2 January 1959

MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. [REDACTED]
Assistant to the Director

SUBJECT: Giangiacomo Feltrinelli;
Application for Visa to the U. S.

REFERENCE: Personal letter from [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] dated 15 December 1958 (enclosure: letter from [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] dated 8 December 1958).

2. Mr. Feltrinelli wants to visit the U. S. ostensibly in connection with the plans of the University of Michigan Press to publish a Russian-language edition of Dr. Zhivago, possibly also for talks with Pantheon Books, publishers of the American edition -- though the latter would seem less important, since Pantheon, to the best of our knowledge, has properly contracted with Mr. Feltrinelli about copyright. [REDACTED]

5 Jan 59

December 29, 1958

AWD

Mr. Allen W. Dulles
Main Post Office
Box 1513
Washington 13, D. C.

Dear Allen:

Thank you so much for your note on behalf of our Italian "friend". I have since been informed that the gentleman has not even made a request for a visa. How strange these people are.

With warm regards,

With ag. regards of the the Gen.

December 15, 1958

PERSONAL

Mr. Allen W. Dulles
2430 E Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Allen:

This is the letter I spoke to you about on Saturday. The writer of the letter,

It does seem to me that if Feltrinelli has indeed broken away from his Communist associations, a useful service might be performed in bringing him to this country.

Certainly no development in Russia in recent months has been half so damaging to the Soviet position in world opinion ~~than~~ was Feltrinelli's action in publishing the Pasternak book. It was good to talk to you.

With warm regards,

Encl: